Katherine Jenkins and the National Symphony Orchestra

ADDITIONAL CONCERT ARRANGED FRIDAY 30TH APRIL

Celebrating Liberation

Katherine Jenkins will be helping to kick off Guernsey's 65th Liberation Anniversary Celebrations in a concert at Beau Sejour, Sir John Loveridge Hall on Saturday 1st May.

Miss Jenkins, who will be accompanied by the full 32-piece National Symphony Orchestra (NSO), will sing a combination of classic and contemporary songs from her repertoire and the NSO will also perform a number of pieces of their own.

Things to do Guernsey are very grateful for corporate sponsorship, our lead sponsor is Carey Olsen, with Bachmann Group, Ray and Scott, Kleinwort Benson and Terra Fira are also sponsoring the event.

Concert 7.45pm

Tickets £45.00 includes box office fee

Delighted to announce an extra concert has been organised.

Friday 30th April

The tickets will be sold by application form.

These forms can be obtained from Tickets for the new performance will be sold through application forms, which will be available at Beau Sejour on Monday 22nd February from 12noon till 5pm, or until all the forms have been taken.

Application forms can be handed in on that day or posted, this will give the opportunity to islanders who are unable to book online.

The tickets will not be issued on the Monday, but applications will be dealt with in order of form number and a limit of 12 seats will be allocated per form.

Seats will be assigned to each application form by 'Things to do Guernsey' on the basis of best available from the front, unless raked seating is specified. Seats that are left empty after this process will be sold through the on-line reservation system.
